Signs of Childhood Cancer

In childhood cancer, the onset of symptoms can be gradual. There are several signs and symptoms that may indicate a child's cancer:

- Fever or chills
- Unusual fatigue
- Changes in appetite or weight loss
- Lumps or masses
- Unusual bleeding or bruising
- Changes in vision or hearing
- Difficulty eating or breathing
- Not growing or developing as expected
- New or persistent pain

If you notice any of these symptoms in a child, it is important to contact a healthcare professional immediately. Early detection and treatment are critical for successful outcomes.
